ALLIES BEGIN HEAVY DRIVE IN SICILY

Americans Crack Axis Line

BRITISH, American and Canadian troops have launched an attack on the whole length of the 60 miles Axis line drawn across the north-eastern corner of Sicily.

Latest official news of the attack, heralding what is likely to be the final stage of the Battle of Sicily, is that progress is being made in all sectors despite fierce Axis counter-attacks.

Fighting in Streets

Reuter's Special Correspondent states that the Eighth Army is striving to penetrate the Etna defences. Heavy street fighting is reported.

The American Seventh Army has advanced along the northern coast to within less than 90 miles of Messina and captured San Stefano and Mistretta.

Cabinet Meets

The British War Cabinet met last night and considered the latest developments in Sicily.

TOWNS CAPTURED

An Allied communiqué issued last night stated:—

"On all sectors steady progress is reported. Strong enemy counter-attacks have been repulsed by the Eighth Army.

"On the Canadian zone heavy fighting took place, but our troops continue to push forward. Among the places now in our hands are Assoro, Nissoria, Nicosia, Mistretta and San Stefano."

The official German News Agency announced:—"After very strong artillery preparation, American and Canadian troops have attacked west and east of Regalbuto." Regalbuto is in the centre of the front.

David Brown, Reuter's special correspondent at Allied H.Q., North Africa, states:—The Eighth Army, supported by the Desert Air Force, has launched a big push against the main Axis defence line south of Catania. Furious counter-attacks, carried out by German parachutists and men of the Hermann Goering Division, met the British as they pushed forward. Bitter fighting is now going on, increasing in intensity as attackers and defenders come to close grips.

At the same time as the Eighth Army have attacked the Germans' southern defences, Americans from General Patton's Seventh Army have cracked the northern end of the Etna line, storming forward to take the key bastions of San Stefano, on the north coast, and Mistretta, six miles to the south. They captured 10,000 prisoners, half of whom are Germans.

OUTFLANKING

The Canadians are making steady progress in the centre of the line, where they are pushing down the main west-east highway that leads from Enna through the German bastion of Regalbuto down to Catania—a movement which threatens to outflank the German defences to the south of Catania.

The whole front from the north to the east coast, under 60 miles long, is in movement, and the Allies are making steady progress towards the Messina bridgehead.

The Allies' new offensive is designed to sweep right through the powerful Etna defences, and was launched all along the front. The Eighth Army is storming in at the toughest point of the whole line, fighting over a no-man's-land pitted with craters, heavily mined, and under Axis cross-fire. Their thrust is directed towards Catania and the slopes of Etna.

In the centre the Canadians are hemming back the Axis into a narrowing corner of Sicily, while in the north the Americans are already successfully infiltrating into the Axis positions, constituting a most dangerous outflanking threat.

Morocco radio gave this report from the front shortly after 11 p.m.: "The Allied advance continues in all sectors. The Eighth Army has repulsed heavy enemy counter-attacks. The Canadians, after fierce fighting, maintained all their positions."

An A.P. message from Allied Force Headquarters says that the French and German radios are reported to be stating that the British, in a series of furious assaults, have gained important new positions near Catania.

Resumption of the drive against the powerful Axis positions below Catania was not unexpected, Reuter adds. Allied Headquarters on Sunday indicated that, by further extending and establishing their bridgeheads, General Montgomery's troops had forced the line of the rivers covering the city, including the Dittaino, which had proved a particularly formidable obstacle.

Vichy Radio stated last night: "General Montgomery launched a large-scale attack on the outskirts of Catania this morning. The Allies have sent strong reinforcements to this sector, but Berlin military quarters stress that the Axis has strengthened its defensive position south of Catania."

Rome radio said that the 8th Army was methodically nearing Catania's strong points. Both Vichy and Berlin said the American troops have entered what may be the decisive battle for Sicily.

Of four battalions of the Hermann Goering Regiment only one remains. The others have disbanded, after suffering extremely heavy casualties.

90,000 Axis Prisoners

ALGIERS radio said last night: "The number of Axis prisoners is mounting hourly. Conservative reports say that they now total 90,000.

"The Canadians are meeting with very stiff resistance in their sector and there has been violent street fighting. The general advance continues everywhere."—(Reuter.)

Mr. Eden's Warning to Germany

MR. ANTHONY EDEN, British Foreign Secretary, said in London yesterday: "We have all been heartened by the news of recent weeks. It is right that this should be so, the three-legged Axis stool has wobbled perilously in one leg. That leg was never really as strong as it pretended to be, but the event is of the first importance, nevertheless. On January 30, 1939, in a speech at the Sportpalast in Berlin, Hitler said: 'As regards National Socialist Germany, she is well aware of the fate that will await her if ever an international force, whatever its motives, succeeds in overwhelming Fascist Italy.' I recall these words to Hitler to-day. He and others would do well to ponder them. We shall certainly do everything in our power to prove them true, by bomb and bayonet, in north and south, as our Russian allies are doing so gallantly on their eastern front to-day.

We are entitled to regard the fall of Mussolini as a cause for rejoicing, but on one condition only, that we accept this auspicious event as an incentive to fresh endeavour against Germany and Japan. There can be no let or pause until these two most formidable enemies have been utterly laid low."

Speaking of the tasks that will confront the people in the post-war years, Mr. Eden said: "This time the tasks of the post-war years will transcend any that we have ever known before. To meet them and to solve them we shall need courage, patience, understanding, above all, unity, perhaps even more than we have needed them in war."

Mr. Bevin Says Adjustments Must be Made

Mr. Ernest Bevin, British Minister of Labour, said at a conference of the Transport and General Workers' Union at Edinburgh yesterday: "In winning this war I have no intention of stopping at anything."

He told the Conference that his Government had decided not to slacken, but to increase, its efforts and power; that adjustments would have to be made, and that he would have some "rather awkward and nasty" decisions to give; that the vicissitudes of war made this imperative.

Calling for the war-time principle of equality to be continued in the post-war period of replenishment, he said: "Otherwise those who have time and money will make a grab on the markets, and will push up prices, while those who are in the least fortunate position will find the value of their wage income reduced to such a point that industrial disturbance must inevitably follow. It is no use talking about avoiding inflation unless steps are taken to apply in the period of replenishment the same principle of equality that we have had during the war period." He felt that Herr Hitler and his supporters made the greatest mistake of their lives when they destroyed the trade unions, co-operative societies and voluntary organisations, and established a régime where everything was ordered from the top.

Japanese Envoy Sees Fuehrer

GENERAL OSHIMA, Japanese Ambassador to Germany, left Berlin on Wednesday and conferred for two hours with Herr Hitler and Herr Ribbentrop at Army Headquarters on the future European military situation and German counter-plans, stated Tokyo radio last night.—(Reuter.)

Berlin Says Eight 'Planes Down

Calais Radio last night stated that eight Allied aircraft were shot down yesterday out of an attacking formation of torpedo 'planes and bombers which attempted to interfere with German merchant shipping west of Brest.—(Reuter.)

Four Axis aircraft were destroyed by Royal Canadian Air Force Spitfires when escorting Coastal Command Beaufighters in an attack on a convoy off Texel. None of the British aircraft is missing from this operation.

Texel is the most southerly of the Frisian Islands, off the Dutch coast.—(Press Association.)

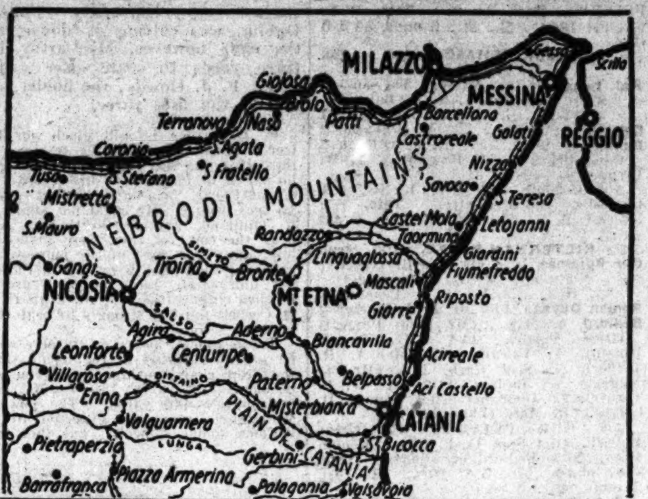
British Survivors Picked Up

Forty-five survivors from a torpedoed British ship, picked up by the Portuguese vessel, Inhambane, are expected in Bahia. Another group from a vessel torpedoed in the South Atlantic were landed yesterday by a whaler at a Brazilian port, says a Reuter telegram from Rio de Janeiro.

Milk Prices Higher

In accordance with the scheme of the Milk Board, prices of milk in Dublin have been increased by ½d. per pint, giving producers 5d. per gallon until October 1st, when higher winter prices will operate. Bottled and delivered milk now is 4½d. per pint, delivered loose 4d., and over the shop counter loose 3½d. In October bottled and loose milk will go up by ½d. per pint, and milk sold in the shops will be increased by ½d.

The German News Agency yesterday stated that an American Catalina flying-boat was shot down in the Atlantic on Sunday afternoon by long-range reconnaissance 'planes. "No survivors were seen," the agency added.—(Reuter.)



RED ARMY TIGHTENS GRIP ON OREL

A NEW Soviet drive south-west of Orel, threatening German communications, was reported last night by the German News Agency, which admitted that the attack had made some progress.

Aim to Cut Communications

The Agency, quoted by Reuter, said:—"The Russians again opened their attacks with very strong infantry and tank forces. During the whole day they stormed at the German lines—obviously aiming at breaking through to Briansk and cutting off our rear communications to the east and north."

It was stated that in the end the German defenders held their own against numerically superior forces.

The Agency said that in the northern part of the Orel sector the Luftwaffe broke up an attack near Karachev and Bolkhov, and that a German counter-thrust penetrated deeply into Russian lines on the extreme northern flank.

BREAK THROUGH

Reuter's special correspondent at Moscow reports that the Red Army's grip on Orel has tightened. Striking new large-scale blows simultaneously north and south, General Rokossovsky, he says, has brought his main forces on both sides 10 miles or more near the city. North of the city he has broken through the second German defence line below Bolkhov, and has opened the way for a rapid advance in force against what must be the latest German defence lines outside Orel itself.

The Soviet advance from the north at the same time enormously increases the threat to the Orel-Briansk railway line.

Bitter fighting continues along the Mius River in the Donetz, where the Germans are attacking the Soviet bridgehead south-west of Voroshilovgrad.

Yesterday's German communiqué said: "The German attack on the Mius front brought a further gain. A dominating height was reached and taken. The Soviets suffered heavy losses in this sector. South-west of Orel the enemy attacks, carried out with strong tank and air support, were repelled with heavy casualties and high losses in tanks."

Last night's Soviet communique said: "During yesterday our troops continued their advance in the Orel district and occupied over 70 inhabited localities. In the Byelgorod direction there was patrol activity. In the Donbas, south-west of Voroshilovgrad, our troops repulsed attacks by large forces of infantry and tanks. On the Leningrad front, north and east of Mga, there was intensified patrol activity and intensive artillery exchanges.

"During August 1 our troops on all fronts destroyed 77 German tanks, 56 in the area of the Donbas. In air fighting and by A.A. artillery 119 German aircraft were brought down."

50,000 Tanks Destroyed

A Berlin military source quoted this morning by the Italian News Agency claimed that 50,000 Soviet tanks have been destroyed since the opening of the Russian campaign.—(Reuter.)

THE Royal Dublin Golf Club (above) before the fire. . . And after (below).

FIRE LOSS AT DUBLIN GOLF CLUB

THE clubhouse of the Royal Dublin Golf Club, Dollymount, as reported in yesterday's late city editions of the "Irish Times," was razed by fire that morning.

The damage, it is estimated, will run into thousands of pounds, while the fire took toll of about 3,000 clubs and balls, and also destroyed fifty valuable and historic clubs by Hugh Philp, a rare "Blackheath Golfer" coloured engraving, and club trophies.

The club was formed in 1885 by the late Mr. John Lumsden. The first course (nine holes) was laid out in the Phœnix Park, near the Magazine Fort. After twelve months the club transferred its headquarters to Sutton, where it remained for two years, then going to the North Bull. The residence of Paddy Mahon, the professional, alongside the clubhouse, was the original pavilion, which was brought from Sutton.

Mr. Edward Dwyer, captain of the club, states that the links will be open for play to-day, and that arrangements are being made for the building of a temporary clubhouse on the grounds.

The committee will meet to-morrow to decide its future course.

New Wines and Spirits Order

Wines or spirits cannot be sold by auction on or after the 6th August next, except under permit. So runs a new Emergency Powers (Auctions) Order made by the Minister for Supplies. Even when a permit is granted and the goods are sold, they cannot be removed until the Minister has granted a permit authorising their removal.

The Order is aimed at curbing speculation in wines and spirits, and the acquisition of supplies of these articles for illicit purposes. A permit for the sale of wines and spirits by auction will be granted only in the most exceptional cases.

Dublin Jeweller's Shop Burgled

Police and detectives are making inquiries into a daring robbery which took place during the week-end, when Mr. P. Bookman's premises in Pearse street was broken into and £725 worth of miscellaneous jewellery stolen. The thieves got into the premises by breaking a back window.

Tramore Drowning

Despite determined rescue efforts, Mrs. Garvey, 20 St. Mary's Villas, Drogheda, was drowned while bathing at the ladies' bathing place, Tramore. The tragedy was witnessed by Mrs. Garvey's three young children.

Ploesti Raid Planned in a Desert

DELAYED action bombs were yesterday still exploding among the devastated refineries, storage tanks, distilleries, and oil wells of Ploesti, which supply over one-third of Axis oil needs, says Reuter.

The 175 U.S. Liberators, which flew 2,400 miles to their target, also struck a sharp blow at the Luftwaffe defences, destroying at least 51 German 'planes. The raid was on such a scale that the damage has not yet been fully assessed. It is known, however, that the Germans have been deprived of a substantial proportion of their refinery facilities.

A Reuter despatch from Cairo said that the Astro-Romana refinery, largest plant of its kind in Europe, had been heavily damaged by large fires. The Giurgia pipeline suffered numerous hits, and the Credit Minier refinery, the newest in Ploesti and the only one producing 103 high octane fuel, was completely covered with bombs. Direct hits were scored on vital installations at the Starra Romana refinery. The Columbia and Aquilia refineries were also hit.

STRONG DEFENCE

In attacks with bombs and incendiaries, at heights of from 100 to 500 feet, distillation plants, towers, boiler houses and tanks received many direct hits. It was known that Ploesti was heavily guarded by great concentrations of German fighters, and the communiqué added that "heavy opposition was encountered over the target and on the return journey, while the bombers met light and heavy A.-A. fire from the ground defences.

"At least 51 enemy aircraft, including Me 109s, Me 110s and FW 190s are claimed as destroyed. Twenty of the Liberators are reported shot down over the target area, and a number have not yet returned to base."

Rome Radio said last night that 60 U.S. airmen, who baled out when their aircraft were set on fire during the oilfields raid, were captured by Axis troops.

German Overseas Radio said last night that three American bombers had made forced landings near Ismir, in Turkey. Turkish A.A. guns went into action, it is said, but no official report was so far available.—(Reuter.)

Airfields in France Bombed

The British Air Ministry and American Headquarters announce that medium bombers of the United States Eighth Air Force attacked German airfields at Merville and St. Omer in France in daylight yesterday. Crews reported bomb bursts in both target areas. There was intense flak over the target, but no Axis fighters were encountered. R.A.F., Dominions and Allied fighters escorted and supported the operation.

One aircraft is missing.—(Press Association.)

Allies Silence Japanese Guns

Reuter's Special Correspondent at Allied Headquarters, South-west Pacific, stated that Japanese guns were silenced and an ammunition dump blown up when Allied Dauntless and Avenger torpedo 'planes and dive-bombers pounded Munda, key Japanese airbase in New Georgia, during the week-end. Twenty-seven tons of bombs were dropped. American troops were reported last week to be little over a mile from the Munda airfield. Japanese bases on Kolombangara Island, the nearest point from which Munda can be supplied, were also bombed.

Although bad weather caused a slowing up of the Allied air offensive in some areas, Lae aerodrome in New Guinea was bombed, and other 'planes sweeping in at almost surface level hit buildings at the Government station at Gasmata, on New Britain. Oil installations were set ablaze in a night attack at Boela on Ceram Island in the Moluccas.

British Resume Attacks on Mainland of Italy

It was announced yesterday that Flying Fortresses had delivered a heavy attack on Naples harbour and that warships had bombarded the Salerno and Cotrone anchorages in the "toe" of Italy.

Shelled by Cruisers

Yesterday's Allied naval communiqué ran: 'On Saturday night a force of cruisers and destroyers bombarded the harbour of Vibo Valentia, on the south side of the Gulf of St. Eufemia.

"At the same time another detachment bombarded the bridge which carries the coastal railway over the River Oliva, about 22 miles to the northward of Vibo Valentia."

The Allied air communiqué stated: "Heavy bombers yesterday attacked the docks at Naples and the airfield at Capodichino. Both target areas were well covered by bomb bursts.

"During these attacks eight enemy aircraft were destroyed in combat. The port of Milazzo (N.E. Sicily) was raided during the day by medium bombers with fighter escort.

"Our fighters maintained patrols over Allied shipping and land forces. Our bombers attacked the communication centres of Adrano and Randazzo, in Sicily. During these operations five enemy aircraft were destroyed. One of our aircraft is missing from all these operations."

IN DARKNESS

Reuter's special correspondent at Allied Headquarters, North Africa, stated:—Cruisers and destroyers made up the force sent to shell Vibo Valentia during darkness early on Sunday.

The harbour of Cotrone, on Italy's "instep," was bombarded (as reported yesterday). Two fires were started, and two patrol craft sunk.

The Italian High Command yesterday reported another bombardment of the coast around Salerno, about 30 miles south-east of Naples.

Massive flights of Flying Fortresses carried out the attacks on the docks at Naples and the great Capodichino airfield, just outside the city.

Two transports in the inner dock were hit, a waterside railway station was almost completely destroyed, a gas tank exploded as a bomb struck the gasworks. Piers, a seaplane base, unloading equipment, derricks, warehouses, and all the installations of the busy port were smashed and set on fire.

DIRECT HITS

A pall of smoke a mile high was left over the city.

The Press Association Military Correspondent, writes:—

"It may be that the final attack on the Axis positions in the north-eastern tip of Sicily will see a simultaneous Allied landing on the 'toe' of Italy, opposite Sicily. This would enable the Allies to cut the communications between the mainland and the island."

Conquest will not be Easy—Rome Radio

Rome radio said to-day:—

"The conquest of Italy will not be an easy matter for the enemy. The fact that the enemy must destroy Italy in order to realise his war plans shows that the fate of Europe depends on the fate of Italy.

"The change which took place in Italy was so sudden that the Italians were flabbergasted, but impartial observers have seen a change take place within the Fascist Party for some months. The searching microscope of public opinion began to enquire into what the Government was doing. People in every walk of life realised that something had to be done. Some change was necessary if the country were to be saved.

"The people, realising that the Fascist Government had misjudged the enemy, understood that only unity under the King's guidance could help. They are pleased that something concrete will be done by the present Government to straighten out the kinks in the line of national conduct. In England and America this seems to have not yet been understood.

"Marshal Badoglio will bring the war to a conclusion with honour and dignity. Civil war, with its blind and aimless fury, will be avoided."

The Italian paper, Il Piccolo, quoted by the Italian News Agency, yesterday declared: "The army is now the expression of the Italian people, which, after 21 years, has come into its own again. What has happened in Italy does not impair the country's will to fight; on the contrary, it strengthens it and makes it more resolute.

"Enemy propaganda is once again on the wrong track, and this time its lack of understanding is phenomenal."

General Quirino Armelini, Commanding General of the Voluntary Militia for National Defence, has ordered the dissolution of the University Fascist Militia.

Stating that life was normal in Italy and that all Government decrees were being carried out, a Rome radio commentator said that "what had been taken for a final crisis and considered by many the beginning of the end has proved to be a resurrection—a beginning in an even stronger spirit than ever."

For failing to observe the curfew 21 Turin people have been sent to prison, says German radio.

Monsignor Evasio Colli, Director-General of the Catholic Action Association of Italy, has—says the Italian News Agency—urged its members to "go on with your work and show exemplary obedience to the Church by displaying loyal discipline towards the authorities."

'PLANE FASTER THAN SOUND

AN American airman in England, in what is believed to be the longest vertical dive in aviation history, has attained a speed faster than that of sound—more than 780 miles per hour.

300 ATTEND SWIMMING CONFERENCE

THE need of indoor baths in Dublin for the promotion of swimming and life-saving was stressed by Alderman E. E. Benson, T.D., at the jubilee luncheon of the Irish Amateur Swimming Association in the Gresham Hotel, Dublin, yesterday. There was an attendance of 300, representative of all Ireland.

Ever since he was elected to the City Council ten years ago, Alderman Benson said, he had taken every possible opportunity of pressing the claim for indoor baths. He hoped that in the reconstruction period some progress would be made and at least one decent indoor baths provided. One of the branches of swimming in which he was keenly interested was life-saving. He believed that no progress would be made in this branch until they had indoor baths, in which an adequate number of spectators could be accommodated. Such baths would pay for themselves.

50 YEARS OLD

Tara Street Baths, Alderman Benson said, were about 50 years old. When they were built Dublin was considerably in advance of other cities—but Dublin had not kept moving with the times.

Alderman Benson was replying to the toast of: "The City of Dublin," proposed by Mr. A. Healy, Cork, past president of the association, who deplored the fact that Dublin had not the same facilities as other cities of its size for swimming.

Alderman Benson, in the absence of the Lord Mayor, Alderman M. O'Sullivan, T.D., presented the prizes to the successful competitors at the Irish Swimming Championship Gala held at Blackrock on last Saturday, and yesterday.

Mr. T. H. Corrigan presided.

THE ANSWER.

"This day week I said I would give him an answer—it is—"Yes!"
I told him I would meet him at the Headquarters for Happy Homes next Friday to select the Furniture and Carpets.
I also told him I had a share in a prize in the last sweep and I insist on paying for some of the Furniture."

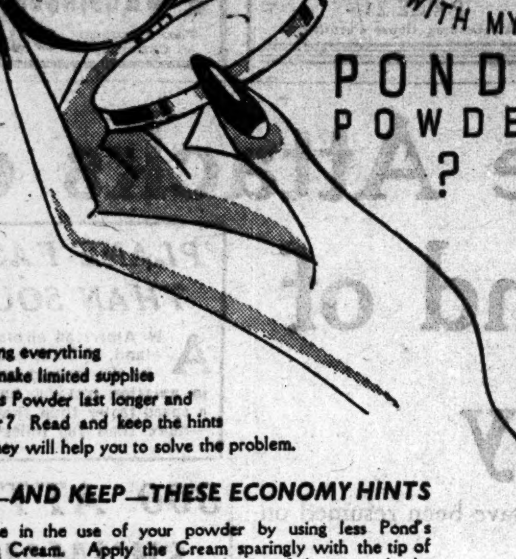
WHEN YOU LOOK IN YOUR MIRROR THINK...



AM I BEING ECONOMICAL WITH MY

POND'S POWDER ?

Am I doing everything Jean to make limited supplies of Pond's Powder last longer and go further? Read and keep the hints below, they will help you to solve the problem.

READ—AND KEEP—THESE ECONOMY HINTS

Economise in the use of your powder by using less Pond's Vanishing Cream. Apply the Cream sparingly with the tip of the little finger. Apply it only to the bridge of the nose, cheekbone, curve of the brow and between the eyebrows. Let it dry for two or three minutes and then powder.

"Make-up" properly once or at the most twice a day. This does away with the necessity for frequent "first aid" treatment. Remember Pond's will "stay put" through the longest day for you are using the finest powder with the perfect base—Pond's Vanishing Cream.

Before opening your new Pond's emergency pack carefully tap the powder towards the bottom of the container. This prevents the loss of powder when you open the container.

If you use a powder box, see that there is a pin-hole in the lid. This saves the blowing about of powder when you open the powder box.

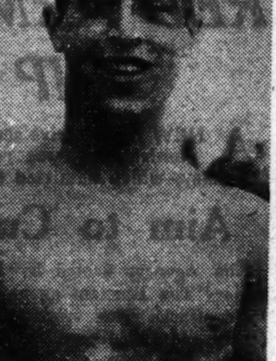
Cork Swimmer Sets Up New Irish Record

By P. D. MacWEENEY.

MUNSTER swimming, for a change, came into the limelight at the concluding session of the National Championship Gala at Blackrock Baths yesterday morning. J. MacCarthy, of the Dolphin club, set up the one new Irish record for the meeting by returning 77 secs. for 100 yards breast stroke, beating the previous best, 78 3-5 secs, done by L. Maher. The Corkman had quite a substantial lead over the first 50 yards, but A. Schulhof, the Austrian student at University College, Dublin, was cutting it down near the end; however, MacCarthy had three yards to spare after a fine race. F. J. Gowdy, the holder, was not in the first three.

E. McCartney is still much our best free-style swimmer, and he retained his third title, the 220 yards, but once again he failed to improve on his record time of last year, his figures being nearly 15 secs. worse. He could not shake off R. Gilliland, another Northerner, until near the end, for they were almost on level terms for most of the journey, but as usual that final burst by McCartney put him safely into the lead, and he finished eight yards in front of his rivals. D. Corbett finished strongly to beat Gilliland for second place.

For a time it looked as if there would be a real surprise in the men's senior squadron championship, which consisted of one x 100 yards, two x 220 yards, and one x 440 yards. The powerful Wellington team were expected to win without undue difficulty, but the Army had a lead of five yards on the 100, and on the second leg Lt. J. Coffey increased this to 7 yards. However, not only did the third Wellington man, W. J. A. Lowry, cut down the lead against Lt. H. O'Neill, but he gave McCartney a lead of 3 yards on the final 440, so that was that. D. Corbett swam pluckily to lose no ground for nearly 440 yards, but he had no hope of catching the champion.



J. McCarthy (Dolphin, Cork), who broke the Irish 100 yards breaststroke swimming record at Blackrock Baths yesterday.

E. Heron retained his high diving championship by a comfortable margin of points, and seems to be as good as ever, but two young divers, Jeddis, of U.C.D., and McCall, of Dublin University and Sunday's Well, showed distinct improvement.

Miss H Dagg, in the lead from the start, was never pressed to retain her 100 yards free style title, but she lost the 220 to Mrs. Mitchell. The two Pembroke girls had the race to themselves, but after the half distance Mrs. Mitchell was not threatened for the lead. The new breast stroke title went to the North, Mrs. Potter leading from start to finish. Since entering as Miss L. Luke she has been married, and is at present on her honeymoon.

Leinster gained some compensation for the succession of reverses in the men's swimming events by reversing last year's senior water polo result, putting in a strong finish to beat Ulster by a couple of goals. Again, the organisation was perfect, and the various officials, and particularly the call stewards, deserve congratulations, while Mr. Boyd is almost the idea announcer. Results—:

WESTERN TITLES

H. Sheridan (Galway) won the 440 yards championship of Connaught at Galway S.C gala yesterday from H. Deeny (Galway) and D. Fitzpatrick (Galway). A. Keogh (Galway) won the diving championship of Connaught and Miss N. Cahill (Blackrock) the women's 100 yards championship.

Great Sprint at L.D.F. Sports

The 43rd Rifle Battalion of the L.D.F. are to be complimented on the success of their sports meeting at Lansdowne road yesterday. The stewards worked with a will, and succeeded in getting through the programme well up to time.

Outstanding among some excellent finishes was the final for the open sprint handicap, in which there were eight heats and three semi-finals. The six finalists got away to a level start, and in the last stride Pte. M. Kelly, the brigade champion, starting off 3 yards, forged past K. P. Carson (A.R.P.), to whom he conceded 2½ yards, to gain the verdict by the narrowest possible margin in the fast time of 9 9-10 secs.

Q.M.S. Flynn, of the L.D.F., brought off a good double in the mile and three miles, but in the three miles he had to go all out to beat Pte. P. Maguire, of the L.D.F., by 4 yards.

HOW YOUR SHARES MOVED IN JULY

SOME sharp price movements were recorded on the Dublin Stock Exchange last month. Business showed signs of improving, and the general trend was upward.

Corporation Stocks scored good gains, and Bank shares were in demand on the maintainance of the half-yearly dividends. Government Funds showed no decided tendency. Rails were in the ascendant, demand being stimulated by the G.N.R. interim dividend on the Guaranteed Stock. Shareholders are hopeful that the year's Ordinary payment will be an improvement on the 1½ per cent. paid for 1942.

Local Industrials, especially the front rank Preference shares, continued in strong demand and values made headway. There were some few exceptions, but losses on the whole were not large.

British Industrials went ahead by leaps and bounds, particularly Textile shares, which were bought on their bright post-war prospects. Coats Ord. jumped 5s. and Courtaulds 4s. 7½d., and there were several other useful gains. Imperial Tobaccos stood out with a rise of 4s. 4½d., but Woolworths were a weak spot.

In Breweries, Guinness Ord. advanced to 121s. 9d. on hopes that the final dividend due next month will be maintained. Last year the company paid a final of 13 per cent. and a bonus of 5 per cent., making 29 per cent. for the year. That announcement came as a pleasant surprise to the market, and the £1 units rose to 103s. 6d. Despite the steep rise in price which has occurred since then, the shares are still a favourite with investors.

The following are the price movements over the past month:—

Improvement in Textile Industry

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

INVESTORS in practically all Lancashire textile shares are delighted to see the market for these shares bounding ahead. This has been going on for quite a time.

There has been steady recovery for the past two years, although the improvement in values has given way at times to reaction, which is common to any section in which the public is keenly interested. The war has brought entirely new conditions for the Lancashire industry. Plenty of cotton can be found in many parts of the world. The problem has been, and still is, to secure adequate shipping space to bring the raw material to the centres of manufacture and production. The famous Liverpool Raw Cotton Market was forced to suspend operations, and as far back as March, 1940, Royal assent was given to a Cotton Industry Act.

The President of the Board of Trade then set up a Cotton Board, with statutory powers to organise an export drive and advise Government Departments on all matters affecting the industry. The result to-day is that cotton is controlled from the raw material to the finished article. Practically all production goes to the British Forces, and the manufacture of severely rationed utility goods. Competition as experienced in the old days died a natural death. Under control every effort is being made to foster the export trade so far as raw materials are available and shipping facilities can be found.

There is one strong point in favour of the industry. This is the ability of the large and smaller concerns to re-equip their mills with up-to-date machinery, the benefits of which will only be seen after the war. Under control, the mills permitted to operate can hardly show a financial loss.

It must not be accepted that the Lancashire industry is completely out of the wood. Many surprises are probably in store for employers and workpeople both during and subsequent to the war. Government control has its advantages under special circumstances, as experienced to-day, but when the industry is faced with the fierce blast of world competition the story may be different.

Such is the position in the Textile share market to-day. To take one instance: active dealings in Calico Printers Ord. have caused a rise in the market price during the last fortnight from 13/6 to 18/-, with a lowest price of 11/6 this year, which goes against 2/4½ in 1941.

Among the interesting dividend announcements made over the holiday is one from Gas, Light and Coke Co. Half-yearly dividends in full are announced on the Pref. and Max stocks with an interim of 1½ p.c. actual, less tax, on the Ord for the year ending next December. A dividend of 1 p.c., actual, less tax, was paid on the Ord. for 1942. That was the first distribution since 1939. The present dividend announcement suggests that the company is slowly recovering its lost position. The £1 units were quoted around 18/- on Friday.

COMPANY NEWS

Amalgamated Metal. — Net profit is £212,347 (against £212,225). Ordinary payment is again 3¼ p.c.

Wm. Hancock. — Net profit £52,653 (against £51,902). As already known, a final dividend of 7 p.c. on the Ord. stock again makes 10 p.c. for the year.

NORTHERN EXCHEQUER

The Northern Ireland Exchequer returns for the past three months show that revenue totalled £9,774,336, compared with £8,767,814 in the same period last year. On the expenditure side the outgoing credit was £5,212,068 for supply services. Advances to the Imperial Exchequer from the sale of Ulster Savings Certificates totalled £2,518,000, against £1,950,000 during the corresponding period last year.

Wall Street Closes Heavy

NEW YORK, Monday.—The Stock Exchange opened irregular and moderately active, but rallied after the early heaviness. The Industrial leaders, which were anything to 1 point lower, erased their losses in many cases and ruled slightly higher near mid-day. The improvement in the list was coincident with the apparent drying up of offerings following last week's active selling. Following the failure to stimulate appreciable buying interest, the market declined, with the late retreat accelerated by the weakness of high-grade issues—notably American Telephone, which dropped more than 3 points. Brokers reported that the underlying support was weakened somewhat by the cancellation of buying orders. The closing tone was heavy. Sales totalling 1,345,000 shares comprised 919 issues, of which 106 advanced, 647 declined, and 166 remained unchanged.—(Reuter.)

E.S.B. Worker's Fall of 40 Feet.—James Murray (50), an E.S.B. worker, of Stella Gardens, Irishtown, received severe head injuries when he fell 40 feet from a platform at the Pigeon House yesterday. He is detained in Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital.

Belfast Tailor Robbed

Nigel Hendry (21), a member of the R.A.F., was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment at Belfast Police Court yesterday for theft. It was stated that at a club he met Mr. Albert Gardiner, who has an outfitting business in Ann street. Thinking that Hendry was on leave, Mr. Gardiner invited him to his home, and, as Hendry suggested that he would have more freedom in civilian clothes, took him to his shop and fitted him with a suit. While he was in the shop, Hendry stole £26. He obtained more clothes at Mr. Gardiner's home. Later he went to Portrush, where he met a girl from whom he obtained the key of a shop. Altogether, there were seven charges of theft against him. Hendry pleaded that he had had a nervous breakdown and hardly knew what he was doing.

How to clean the lavatory

TO clean the lavatory thoroughly and effectively, simply sprinkle a little Harpic into the bowl and leave as long as possible. Then flush. The whole bowl gleams white!

Harpic's thorough action removes all discoloration—effectively cleans and deodorizes.

Harpic's cleansing action reaches right round the S-bend. The whole bowl is clean and sanitary—the part you don't see, as well.

HOUSE RENT £1 PER ANNUM

The days when a house on Wood quay, rented for £1 per year, and a house in Fishamble street, for 11s. 3d. per year, are recalled in an article by Rev. Canon J. B. Leslie, D.Litt., in the current number of the journal of the Royal Society of Antiquaries of Ireland, on "An Old Dublin Vestry Book." The book is that of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, Dublin, which was closed down in 1878, and it is said to be one of the oldest, if not the oldest, vestry books in Ireland, as it goes back to 1595. Material in this book, hitherto unpublished, gives a record of rents of Church property, which shows that Alderman Duff's house in "Wood Key" was rented at £1 per annum and houses in Fishamble street and Oxmantown for 11s. 3d. each. An item for 1643 is for burying 29 poor people found dead in the streets, 14s. 6d., and there is an entry referring to the burial of "the poor English, who having fled to this citie for refuge and dyed in the parish of St. John and were buried since the 30 December 1641."

The audit of the accounts of the parish was conducted periodically by four or five of the principal parishioners, who met for this purpose in a tavern, and, says Canon Leslie, "did themselves well, for their account of wine consumed on the occasion was paid by the parish and was no small one."

Canon Leslie also states that the vestry books of the old Dublin parishes are very interesting, and that "it is surprising that little use has been made of them by writers on the history of Dublin."

Offensive in Sicily

The last stage in the battle for Sicily has begun; so much is implicit in reports from Allied, Axis and neutral sources. For the best part of a fortnight the British Eighth Army has been "marking time" in front of Catania, but during the week-end it assumed the offensive, and, in the words of Rome Radio, "is methodically nearing Catania's strong points"—a phrase which accords very closely with other reports from various sources. Simultaneously, the United States troops on the north coast, and the Canadians in the centre, have been thrusting towards the apex of the north-eastern triangle which now is all that the Axis defenders hold of Sicily. It is announced that the Canadians are thrusting to either side of the town of Regalbutto, which — unmarked upon maps of any except very considerable scale—lies approximately half-way between Nicosia and Aderno. The Americans have captured San Stefano, on the north coast, as well as Mistretto, some miles inland, and a number of towns and villages of smaller importance. Some care is taken in the Allied communiqué to forestall any comparison between the present situation in Sicily and the situation that arose when the Allies, having seized Tunis and Bizerta, had driven the Axis forces into the Cap Bon peninsula of Tunisia. The better comparison, as we remarked recently, would be between the present situation and that which existed while the Axis still was in possession of the great Tunisian ports and still were in a position to resist. About the quality of their resistance in that remaining corner of Sicily there is no doubt; it is recognised in all reports, one of which alleges that street fighting takes place in every town along the line of the American thrust, and that "every hill-top must be fought for." The bulk of the resistance, however, is directed against the onset of the British forces at Catania, where formidable opposition is reported, taking the form both of parachute troops behind the lines and of strenuous counter-attacks by the Hermann Goering Division. Yet the general tone even of the Axis reports is that the Germans and Italians are very much on the defence. They are outnumbered heavily on land, and their possible sources of supply and reinforcement are being bombed, both by day and by night, with the utmost severity. It is announced that Naples received another visitation during the week-end, as well as the neighbouring airfield of Capodichino and two South Italian ports within easy reach of Sicily. Unless, indeed, the defenders have a very useful, and unexpected, card up their sleeves, it looks as if the occupation of all Sicily, fiercely as it may be resisted, cannot be deferred for any great length of time.

The Long View

Irish hotel-keepers have reaped a golden harvest during the last few weeks. Any visitor to Amiens street Station must have seen the notices: "Bray and Dun Laoghaire full"—"The following Dublin hotels and many others are full." Business has been not only brisk, but lucrative; for the visitors from Northern Ireland have come with their savings in their pockets, determined that neither a few pence nor a few pounds shall stand in the way of their enjoyment. It seems that widespread advantage has been taken of the opportunity. Prices in many hotels and restaurants have jumped to an alarming degree, and visitors have been shocked by the magnitude of the bills with which they have been confronted. Some hotel-keepers of the east coast seem to have indulged in profiteering as shameless as that for which race-week Galway used to be notorious. The policy is a short-sighted one. This is a time, such as there never was before, in which to establish the pre-eminence of the South as the holiday resort of the North. Avarice among hotel-keepers ought not to be allowed to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs. From a severely practical point of view, the holiday industry must attempt to regard every visitor not as a windfall, but as a source of permanent income. There is another, and perhaps more important, consideration. Ireland never has offered much in the way of holiday facilities to the less well-to-do among her own people. Good, cheap hotels have been rare —youth hostels, admirable in their way, far too few. In general, the aim of the Irish tourist industry in the past was to attract moneyed people from England and America, and let the Irishman of moderate means go to the Isle of Man. It was desirable always that every citizen should have the opportunity of an inexpensive holiday within the State; at the present time it is essential. Our aims at present are twofold: first, to secure some reasonable holiday facilities for the people of the twenty-six counties; secondly, to build up a permanent tourist traffic from the North— not merely to "cash in" on a temporary boom. The case for the revival of the Irish Tourist Board seems to be a strong one. It was established in 1939, with ample funds, and wide powers over all branches of the tourist industry. In particular, its work was to compile a register of hotels and lodging-houses, in which conditions and prices were to be approved and fixed. All hotels on the register were to be subject to inspection, and might be removed if they failed to preserve the required standard; and price lists were to be displayed prominently. At the outbreak of war, the operations of the Board were suspended, apparently because it was felt that the appointment of inspectors was unjustified "until Ireland's tourist trade returns to more normal proportions after the war." The decision was reasonable at the time; but subsequent events have shown that it ought to be reconsidered. Instead of a slump, there has been a boom in the tourist trade. Now is the time for the Tourist Board to start work, if it is to achieve any results when the war is over. Not only to prevent reckless exploitation of visitors, but to secure inexpensive holidays for the ordinary citizen, it ought to be revived now.

DURING his visit to Donegal Mr. de Valera will stay for a time at Rosapenna Hotel, Carrigart.

Sir James Nelson and Mr. W. M. Shawe-Taylor were among those present at Leopardstown on Saturday.

The Hon. Mrs. Nigel Baring is at present in Dublin.

Mr. R. More O'Ferrall has arrived in Dublin.

Mr. Martin O'Sullivan, Lord Mayor of Dublin, has arrived in Spanish Point, West Clare, where he will spend a month's holidays. The citizens of his native town, Ennistymon, are arranging to make him a presentation.

Mr. John McGovern, M.P., who has been staying in the Gresham Hotel, has left for Northern Ireland.

Count Rabonewitz has returned to England from Dublin.

Miss Zita Berchmans has arrived in Dublin from Northern Ireland.

Mrs. Cahill White has returned to Dublin from Rockmills, Kilkenny.

Mr. T. H. Corrigan, President, Irish Amateur Swimming Association, presided at the jubilee lunch of the association, held yesterday in the Gresham Hotel, at which the guests included Alderman Benson, T.D.; Mr. H. M. Dockrell, T.D., and Rev. A. J. McAvoy, S.J.

The engagement is announced between David Rodney Vern Crichton, M.R.C.V.S., only son of Mrs. Crichton, 14 Randolph Crescent, Edinburgh, and Joan Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kirkpatrick, Springfield, Braddan, Isle of Man, late of Glen Barr, Palmerston road, Dublin.

10,000 TONS OF WATER LOST

A new 23½-inch arterial water main was lowered into its twelve-foot-deep pit in D'Olier street last night. It replaced the 24-inch one, laid in 1864, which burst at 1.30 a.m. on Sunday sending cascades of water into the air, bursting the wooden sets, and flooding the basements of adjoining premises in D'Olier street and Fleet street. About 10,000 tons of water, it is estimated, ran riot.

Since Sunday morning, for a period of about forty hours, a gang of workers from the Waterworks Department of the Corporation have worked ceaselessly in effecting the repair of Dublin's worst water-main break. Upwards of seventy tons of rubble had to be dug up to get to the fractured main, and then all the water remaining there had to be pumped out.

To-day the work of filling up the excavation will be begun, D'Olier street will cease to be cordoned off, and 'bus traffic will resume its normal flow.

RADIO EIREANN'S "LAPSE"

Despite the recent broadcasting ban on "hot" dance music, listeners to Joe Linnane's "Diverse Discs" programme, broadcast from Radio Eireann last night, were surprised —and very many of them pleased!— to hear Arty Shaw, U.S. "King of Swing," Bing Crosby and other "swingsters."

"LAUGHTER AT EIGHT"

NEW O'D. SHOW AT GAIETY

The trouble about the new O'D. show, "Laughter at Eight," which opened at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, last night, is its length. Three crowded hours, even so full of clever wisecracks, comic situations, nimble dancing and polished singing, make it difficult for those who wish to see the show to get home at a reasonable hour. The book is one of the liveliest Harry O'Donovan has written, full of slick witticisms and topical allusions that give Jimmy O'Dea full play for his wonderful talents. Jimmy, as the saying goes, is out on his own, creating a number of new rôles. He is especially good as the film star, Veronica Cassidy, and as the Emperor Nero. Mollie O'Connor, about whom there was such a to-do last week, sings at the microphone a number of songs in distinctive style, and there is also very pleasant singing by Sean Ryan (tenor), Josephine O'Hagan (soprano), and Stephen Black (baritone), Maureen Potter does clever tap dancing, and Mary Poswolsky and Partner are principal dancers in a couple of well-staged ballets. With a little pruning and speeding-up, this should prove yet another big O'D. success.

GATE THEATRE

"YAHOO" REVIVAL

The revival of Lord Longford's best play brought a big audience to the Gate Theatre last night, and this new production by John Izon after some years will make it almost as a new play to a great many. "Yahoo" condenses the story of Jonathan Swift most effectively for the stage. It is the story more or less as it began from his enemies in his own day, and as it has continued to pile up, in book after book, ever since. We see the lover, the man who hated his kind, the patriot, and the madman. The passages with Stella and Vanessa are there for what they were; we hear his angry denunciation of "the yahoo," the common man, the creature who goes to make the mob; we are introduced to the author of the Drapier Letters; and we see the one who had all these parts expiring eventually as "a driveller and a show." "Yahoo" moves with commendable speed; but, although Swift's relations with Stella and Vanessa are stated clearly enough in two excellent portraits of these ladies, the Dean himself is not fully explained. There may be a simpler explanation, and it could begin at Laracor, where he first thought of Gulliver, and where he must have heard the word "yahoo," as a name they had for one another around that place. The expressionist extension of the story here, good theatre though it is, does not explain anything. Nevertheless, so big is the spirit that is evoked, "Yahoo" comes over to the end as a most interesting play.

In this production it is better played than ever before. T. St. John Barry gives a very fine performance as Swift; Doris Finn gives tragic depth to Vanessa; and, in the restraint with which she plays Cathleen Delany makes us feel the pathetic effacement of Stella. Seumas Forde, as Swift's servant, has a good part and never loses a moment of it. Of the others in a long cast, John Biggerstaff, as Doctor George Berkeley, has the most to do in helping the play to a perfect presentation.

OTHER THEATRES

Theatre Royal—"Something in the Air," able successor to the popular "Thank Your Stars," is one of the most spectacular and smartest productions presented at this theatre for many months. Last night's large Bank Holiday audience enjoyed it thoroughly. Flitting quickly from musical comedy to swing, and then to comedy, the programme embraced virtually every type of popular entertainment, and not the least attractive feature was the dancing of the Twelve Royalettes, the Twelve Rockettes and the Show Girls, all under the direction of Alice Delgarno, who was herself excellent in "Hungarian Rhapsody."

May Devitt's contribution was as good as ever. Particularly noteworthy was her singing of "Caro Nome," Verdi's famous aria from "Rigoletto," but she excelled, also, in partnership with Maurice Keary, an excellent baritone, who is new to "Royal" audiences. His presentation of the material at his disposal last night was exceptionally good. Buffoonery was introduced by Noel Purcell, Wilfred Brambell and Albert Sharpe, and was well maintained throughout by this trio. Frankie Blowers—whose popularity is growing weekly—crooned pleasantly with Kay Maher. The variety was completed by Dicti Ruddock, Jennie O'Toole, Maura Bradner and Eddie Byrne. George Rothwell was at the organ, and Jimmy Campbell's orchestra played an enjoyable selection of music. The film was "Aerial Gunner."

Olympia.—Now going into its eightieth year, Dion Boucicault's play, "Arrah na Pogue," could challenge for freshness and vitality—in a Dublin theatre at least—many a play which has since been accepted as a masterpiece. Confirmation of this was shown by the large audience which thronged to the Olympia last night for the first night of its revival. The generous measure of entertainment which Boucicault poured into his plays makes them comparable with some of Shaw's best, and then the extras in the form of an occasional song and dance thrown in to make sure that the cup of entertainment is full. The production by Lorcan Bourke gave the play its full traditional values, and, if there were a few roughnesses, these will probably have disappeared by to-night. In the midst of some very fine acting that of John Stephenson, as the villainous process-server, stands out as being in the fine flower of melodrama. Another very fine contribution was made by Martin Crosby, as singer of the incidental songs, which were so successful at times as to threaten to make the remainder of the play unnecessary. Liam Gaffney was a very fine O'Grady, and Joe O'Dea was a very good Secretary of State. There was also good acting by Eithne Dunne, Gerard Healy, Phyllis Ryan, Charles Carey, Austin Meldon and Sam Mooney, and some fine Irish dancing by a Comerford troupe.

Abbey Theatre. — The choice of Brinsley MacNamara's amusing comedy, "Look at the Heffernans," for holiday fare was an excellent one, and a crowded audience last night thoroughly enjoyed the marriage tangles of the County Meath farmer brothers, James and Paul Heffernan, splendidly played by M. J. Dolan and W. O'Gorman, respectively. F. J. McCormick was effective as the tailor, Festus Darby, and Seamus Healy appeared as Marks Heffernan, the sheepish son of James. It was Eileen Crowe who held the play together as the scheming milliner, Mrs. Molloy. Fred Johnson, May Craig, Denis O'Dea, Brid Ni Loingsigh, Ria Mooney and Cathleen Fawcitt, filled the other parts efficiently.

Queen's. — A holiday audience laughed almost continuously when "And So To Laugh" was presented to them at the Queen's Theatre last night. It is all-round entertainment, one of the brightest spots being Local Talent On Parade. Jimmy Harvey, Joe Duffy and Dan Cummins were extremely amusing "jarveys." Alfred O'Shea drew numerous encores with an excellent selection of songs, while Liam O'Connor was also popular. The Queen's Moonbeams added colour with snappy dance routines, while Alec C. Fryer and the Theatre Orchestra helped effectively throughout. The film is "He Hired the Boss," with Stuart Erwin.

MONKSTOWN DOG SHOW

The Afghan hound, Ch. Vendas Tash Down, the property of Mrs. Margaret O'Toole, Millmount Villas, Drumcondra, Dublin, was adjudged the best dog at the annual Monkstown Dog Show, which was held at St. Grellan's Hall School, Monkstown, Co. WORLD'S TOUGHEST JOB

"There is nothing pretty or romantic about modern war," writes Major-General Hugo MacNeill, G.O.C., 2nd Division, in the current issue of the divisional organ, "The Spearhead." "It has," he says, "no place in it for glamour boys. It is the toughest, most ruthless and most technical job in the world. A well-known writer on modern war summed up the whole thing very aptly when he said the soldier of the future must have 'the confidence of the martyr and the enthusiasm of the lover, combined with the ruthlessness of a gangster. He must be able to cheat like a cardsharper. He must have the agility of a cat-burglar, the hardiness of an Eskimo, and the strategical and tactical knowledge of a General; and, all these qualities must be combined with a rigid adherence to a strict code of discipline.'"

"It is not a very pretty picture. It bears little resemblance to the romantic, glamorous soldiers of our history books. But there is nothing pretty or romantic about modern war. This is how it is fought by the soldiers of all nations. Our job" (he tells the men of his division) "whether we like it or not, is to beat them at their own game. So it is up to you now. Master your weapons; master your battle training, and we will show that not alone can we 'take it' but that we can 'give it.'".

PORTUGAL WANTS IRISH HORSES

A party of Portuguese officers, headed by the Marquis de Funchal, have arrived in Dublin, in the vain hope of finding the far-famed Dublin Horse Show still in existence. They are interested in the purchase of Irish show-yard jumpers for Portugal. The Marquis de Funchal is a noted horseman. He takes his title from Madeira.

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

TWO years ago to-day Ballynennan Moon ran his first race in England, and since then he has raced ninety-one times against the best greyhounds that could be found to compete against him. It is extremely doubtful if any greyhound has exceeded such a number of races in the same period. "The Moon" has won 65 races here, and at Wimbledon last week he finished his second sequence of five consecutive defeats, and is now resting. What would have been a record of 24 consecutive wins was broken by a short-head defeat by Laughing Lackey at the White City in heavy going on a foggy afternoon last November, an incident which has become known as "the ghost in the fog" because it was suggested that the "ghost" of Mick the Miller had cast a spell on the occasion to prevent The Moon from equalling Mick's record of 15 consecutive wins. Apart from the broken sequence, The Moon has set up winning sequences of ten and six, and has twice won five races in succession. He has won, in this country, £3,820 and 36 trophies worth £526.

Youthful Ambassador

Next month should see the arrival in Britain of Mr. Fyodor Gusev, the new Soviet Ambassador, who at 39 is succeeding Mr. Maisky, from whom he differs in that he was trained for diplomacy. A graduate of the University of Leningrad, he worked in the Leningrad State offices as a legal adviser, and has been in the Foreign Commissariat since 1937. For two years he was head of the department which deals with the British Commonwealth.

World's Biggest Union

Mr. Ernest Bevin's Transport and General Workers' Union, which opened its biennial conference at Edinburgh to-day, is the biggest trade union in the world, with a membership of nearly a million and a quarter, assets of £2,500,000, and representation on nearly 140 separate Wage Regulating committees. The Union is also celebrating its coming of age, for it was in 1922 that the amalgamation took place of fourteen unions catering for transport workers, with a total membership of 300,000. One of Mr. Bevin's many big achievements was the building of Transport House, now the nerve centre of the Labour movement, in the heart of Westminster, adjoining the palatial offices of the I.C.I. and other great captains of industry.

Accident Prevention

There are two reasons for the great toll of road accidents, the simplicity of which has led to their being overlooked, according to Lord Sempill. In the first place, no attempt has been made in Britain to provide absolute segregation of the two types of road traffic which are substantially incompatible, namely "through" traffic and "service" traffic. The second reason is that, whereas one category of traffic unit, 3,000,000 motor vehicles, has been subjected to hundreds of mandatory regulations, the major number of traffic units— the 30,000,000 pedestrians — have been subjected to no guidance by any habit-forming rule of conduct. "Hence their intended next move is is quite unforseeable."

Seeds for Canaries

Because of the scarcity of very high-priced imported seed for canaries and budgerigars, Shepherd's Purse, dwarf annual grass, plantain, various thistles, wood melick, teasels and the pink and crucifer families are being collected in large quantities for the purpose. The seeds, too, of all grasses in the country are suitable, and are extensively collected from July to September.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

In the Line

I heard from a friend that Ginnette Waddell, daughter of Sam Waddell, has been doing very well with the Gate Theatre Company on its tour of the North. Indeed, an English professional of very long experience has described her as "the best thing he has seen in Ireland."

Miss Waddell was an outstanding figure in Dublin amateur circles a couple of years ago. She was personally responsible for the resuscitation of the Dublin University Players, and, if I remember aright, was a winner of the individual gold medal at the Feis Maitiu drama competition. On the Gate tour she has been playing Lady Bracknell in "The Importance of Being Earnest," and Ruth, the second wife, in "Blithe Spirit."

Her father is better known, of course, as Rutherford Mayne, author of that excellent play, "Bridge Head," and himself a distinguished actor. He is best remembered, by me at least, for his playing in "The Emperor Jones."

The McCready-Bryans

W. S. McCready-Bryan, the young T.C.D. athlete, who has been chosen to represent Eire in the long jump event in the forthcoming athletic contest against Ulster on August 7th, comes of a well-known sporting family in Co. Sligo, where his father is the rector of Rathbarron Parish.

They live, therefore, right in the heart of the country hunted by Major C. K. O'Hara's Harriers. Seldom is the McCready-Bryan clan unrepresented at a meet of these popular hounds. All four of the younger members are enthusiastic riders, while Mrs. McCready-Bryan is so keen a horsewoman that, in order to obtain a third-day's hunting in the week, she frequently hacks to the Wednesday meet of the Co. Sligo Harriers — never less than fourteen miles from home.

As an Australian, used to the wide open spaces of the bush, she, no doubt, finds this journey a mere bagatelle. On her thoroughbred Arab "Dawn," Mrs. McC.-B. has proved herself a successful competitor at nearby point-to-points and jumping competitions. Her three daughters have already shown how proficient they are in the hunting field.

Should "Bill" get the distance into his jump which his oft-times mount "Dawn" invariably does over a double bank, the long jump result is a certainty.

A Historic Guild

The fate of two silver-gilt loving cups that were manufactured by a Dubliner, Edward Swan, in the seventeenth century, and will be sold in London by Sotheby's to-morrow, has aroused considerable interest among Irish silversmiths.

They were produced in 1679, are 17 inches high, and weigh 63 ounces. Their owner, Sir Fullarton James, C.B.E., is a descendant of Sir John Kingston James, K.B., who was Lord Mayor of Dublin from 1821-2 and from 1840-1, after which he became City Treasurer.

The two bell-shaped bowls are inscribed: "The Gild of Merchants of the Holy and Undivided Trinity, Dublin, Anno Domini, 1674," and bear the crest of the "Gild," "Deo Aspirante," and the motto of the first baronet, Sir John Kingston James.

Records from 1438

Although the "Gild of the Holy Trinity" received the Charter from King Henry IV. in 1451, its journal begins in 1438, and, according to the annals of the Royal Society of Antiquaries, the body undoubtedly existed long before this. The assistance of "brethren in poverty or distress and the settlement of quarrels without litigation" were among their first principles. An oath of obedience was taken on admission, and on meeting days officers were elected, new members were admitted, and accounts were settled. One member of the "Gild"— Nicholas Duffe—who acted as an agent in England for the "Gild," was afterwards Lord Mayor of Dublin in 1579.

The Chantry of the "Gild" was in the Church of the Holy Trinity (now Christ Church Cathedral), Dublin. From 1451-2 meetings were held in the upper apartment of the Tholsel. In 1648 members were meeting in the Common Hall of the Tholsel, and in 1806, when the Tholsel was demolished, they moved to the Exhibition Room, William street. In 1824 they went to Wellington quay, where they remained until 1841.

The records from 1438-1854, which for a number of years had been preserved in the Merchant Taylor's School, were deposited in 1908 in the Public Records Office.

ROYAL VISIT TO ASCOT

King George and Queen Elizabeth paid a surprise visit to Ascot yesterday, and joined thousands of holiday-makers at the races. When they appeared in the Royal box there was an outburst of cheering. The Duke of Norfolk and the Earl of Sefton welcomed the King and Queen, who stayed for three races.

They walked down to watch the saddling of the King's horse, Sunblind, a much-fancied entrant for the Eton Stakes. But the King and Queen, through their race glasses, saw their colours finish second, beaten by Lady Wyfold's Samovar. The King sent for Mr. F. Darling and for Gordon Richards, the jockey, and presented them with copies of the paintings by Mr. A. J. Munnings of the King's filly, Sun Chariot, which won the Oaks last year.

DUNMOW FLITCH HAD TO GO BACK

Down the centuries the Dunmow Flitch has been awarded to those couples who at the historic trials could prove the happiness of their marriage, but for the first recorded occasion since the trials began in the 12th century this year's winners had to hand the bacon back.

Instead of the customary flitches, gammons were borrowed from the local stores, and rationing restrictions made it necessary for them to be returned after yesterday's trials. The winners—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bootle, all of Dunmow, had a token presentation only.

The jury of young bachelors and maidens was made up of nurses, land girls, soldiers and a policeman.

SLEPT IN THE ZOO

Stretched on the grass near the wolves' enclosure, in the Dublin Zoo late one night last week, the Superintendent found two young men fast asleep. They had lain down to rest in the late afternoon, worn out with the day's sight-seeing, had not heard the closing signal at 6.30, and—from their appearance—might have slept till the next day if the Superintendent, taking an evening walk, had not discovered them.

The attendance at the Zoo last month is believed to be a record, with the total number of visitors being close on 40,000. Seventy-five per cent. of them were from the North of Ireland, and many of them were surprised to find the Zoo so well stocked after four years of emergency conditions.

Foresters Urged to Avoid Politics.— The 18th annual convention of the Irish National Foresters' Benefit Society, Northern Ireland, was held in Strabane yesterday. Mr. Bernard Larkin, outgoing High Chief Ranger, Newry, urged them not to allow their society to be captured by any political machine. They were, he added, proud of their Irish newspapers, not only for what they gave, but for what they omitted.

Enjoy all the pride and pleasure of Persil washing and, at the same time, get real soap economy! This is how to do it. Make up your Persil suds with tepid water and wash your woollens, coloureds and silks as usual. But don't throw away those precious Persil suds. They're still active and there's lots of life and hard work left in them! Put them in the boiler with your white wash, and continue as usual. You'll find you get a perfect wash both times and save a great deal of Persil.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

ended in three minutes

NO MORE RAZORS OR SMELLY PASTES

IN less time than it takes to slip into your bathing suit your arms and legs are free from every trace of hair. No embarrassment now in any movement.

Just as shaving turns a youth's downy growth into a stiff coarse beard, so your unwanted hair grows back thicker and coarser when you use a razor. The up-to-date girl uses the latest discovery of Science—New 'VEET'. This dainty fragrant cream gently dissolves away the hair down below the surface of the skin. Leaves the skin satin-soft, without a trace of stubble—not even a shadow. And actually weakens growth. You will be amazed how quick, easy and pleasant it is to remove hair with New 'VEET'. But never apply it where you want hair to grow again. Successful results guaranteed with New 'VEET' or money refunded. At all chemists 6d. and 1/3.

Save me for your further use

Don't blame your supplier if he insists that for every tube of toothpaste you buy you must hand over an old tube. It is necessary and by doing so you help to give employment, and you help to ensure your future supplies.
